

Coronavirus Relief Check

Many of us have heard about the government's plan to send Coronavirus relief checks (Coronavirus Stimulus) to taxpayers. What some of us don't know is that this is the PERFECT opportunity for scammers to come at us with new ways to try to take advantage of us.

This scam involves someone calling and asking for account and routing numbers or debit card numbers to deposit account holders' Coronavirus relief check from the government. We ask that you do not give just anyone your information. Doing so leaves you and your money vulnerable to fraud and your money being taken away from you.

We want to remind you that scammers are very good at playing with your emotions and saying exactly what needs to be said to sound convincing and get what they want.

A simple solution, if someone is calling you, do not give them personal information.
